MINERAL

Crafted to endure through time.

In childhood, crystals and stones were small worlds, fragments collected from the ground during walks in nature or brought home from my father's travels. Their colors, veins, luster, and unexpected geometries sparked the imagination.

MINERAL emerges from this reconnection.

Composed of four cast bronze planes, the piece evokes the geometry of a crystal, while its surface preserves the natural irregularities of the casting process and the traces left by fire.

Bronze naturally reacts to the passage of time, and may darken or develop stains. This oxidation process is an inherent characteristic of the metal and does not compromise the strength or durability of the piece; on the contrary, this transformation is understood as an expression of time and the history of the object.

If the preservation of the original shine is desired, periodic polishing with automotive wax is recommended. Apply the wax with a microfiber cloth and remove excess product by drying the surface with a clean cloth afterwards. For daily maintenance, do not use cleaning products; simply use dry cloths or a feather duster.

Variations in texture, as well as the presence of pores, are inherent to the material and the manufacturing process and should not be considered defects. As this is a handcrafted piece, variations may occur between individual pieces regarding tone, texture, and finish.
